AIR PRESSURE.

The Weight a Human Body is Compelled to Sustain.

If a person who had given no thought to the matter were told that he is perpetually sustaining a weight of about fourteen tons and that that stupendous burden is ever varying, sometimes increasing, sometimes decreasing, to the extent of 400 and 500 pounds in the course of a few hours, he would probably consider that his information was demoted. But that prodigious load represents the weight of air which every person of average size is always bearing, although, as the pressure is equal on all sides, the cumbersome burden is not only not felt, but under certain conditions of the atmosphere, when the barometer stands high, indicating that the pressure is increased, a sense of invigoration is experienced, which passes away when he has been relieved of the additional hundred-weight or two which he was carrying. Some idea of the tremendous pressure of the air may be gathered by placing the hand firmly over the receiver of an air pump and exhausting the air therefrom. A large hand measuring eight square inches would then, if the air were completely exhausted, have a weight of exactly a hundredweight pressing upon its upper surface. Only a Samson would have sufficient muscular force to lift that load and remove his hand from the mouth of the receiver.

Although our atmosphere is so transparent and so diaphanous, yet its total weight is computed at the enormous total of five thousand five hundred million millions of tons! And when this ponderous element is set in violent motion, as in a hurricane, its weight and density are more readily realized, for then, when in all its fury the unseen air is madly rushing along or furiously whirling around and around at the rate of a hundred miles an hour, nothing except the most solidly erected structures can withstand its infuriated and fierce onslaughts.
Great trees are felled in a moment, stacks of corn or hay are scattered to the winds, and even human beings struck by the tornado are hurled to the ground or even caught up and whirled through the air like feathers in a gale.—A. Banker.

Range of Eyesight.

Those who are curious in such matters may be interested in testing the correctness of the conclusions of Dr. Schaecker of Munich concerning the distance at which people can be recognized by their faces and figures. If you have good eyes, he says, you cannot recognize a person whom you have seen but once before at a greater distance than twenty-five meters (eighty-two feet).
If the person is well known to you, you may recognize him at from 50 to 100 meters, and if it is a member of your family even at 150 meters.
The white of the eyes may be seen at from twenty-seven to twenty-eight meters and the eyes themselves at seventy-two to seventy-three meters. The different parts of the body and the slightest movements are distinguishable at ninety-one meters. The limbs show at 182 meters. At 540 meters a moving man appears only as an indefinite form, and at 720 meters—2,361.6 feet—the movements of the body are no longer visible.—Youth's Companion.

The Geese of Nieder-Morlen.

In the little Hessian village of Nieder-Morlen, says the Strand Magazine, between Giessen and Frankfurt, a strange scene may be witnessed every evening at 5:30.
Some 2,000 geese, which have spent the day on the river's bank below the village, at a given signal from their leaders make their way homeward with much pomp and circumstance and raucous noise. The strangest part of the proceeding is seen when they reach the village street and, without any guidance or driving, waddle each into its own yard for the night. Like so many squads they break off in their dozens from the main body, knowing instinctively their owners' door and with solemn gait entering in as though conscious of their own innate cleverness.

Too High.

"I thought this building had only forty stories!" cried the excited foreigner.
"It has," said the elevator starter.
"Ah, no! You deceive me! I just got on one of your elevators.
One passenger said, 'Three, please.' Another said, 'Seven,' another 'Ten.' And then a man cried out, '1,945!' Sacre bleu! I got out at the first stop. It is too much of ze risk!"
"But '1,945' is an office number," explained the starter.
"No! You deceive! I have not ze trust in you! Tomorrow I return to Paris!"—New York Times.

My Cream Balm has been tried and not found wanting in thousands of homes all over the country. It has won a place in the family medicine chest among the reliable household remedies, where it is kept at hand for use in treating cold in the head just as soon as some member of the household begins the preliminary sneezing or snuffling. It gives immediate relief and a day or two's treatment will put a stop to a cold which might, if not checked, become chronic and run into a bad case of catarrh.

A Missing Point.

"Professor," said an acquaintance.
"you understand Latin, do you not?"
"Well," replied the professor, "I may be said to have a fair knowledge of Latin."
"I know everybody says you have,
I wish you would tell me what 'volix' means. Nobody that I have asked seems to have heard the word."
"If there is any such word as 'volix,' madam, of which I have serious doubts, I certainly do not know what it means."
"You surprise me, professor. A man of your attainments ought to know that 'volix' means vol. ix."

The professor devoted a moment to calling up his reserves and bringing his light artillery into action.
"It is no wonder, madam," he said, "that I did not see the point of your joke. You left the point out of it."

Quick Witted Divines.

Dr. P. S. Henson once delivered his lecture on "Fools" at the New York Chautauqua. In introducing him Bishop Vincent said:
"Ladies and gentlemen, we are now to listen to lecture on 'Fools,' by one—The audience broke into a roar of laughter, and after it had died away Bishop Vincent added, "of the most brilliant men in America."

Dr. Henson rose and, with a genial smile, said, "Ladies and gentlemen, I am not so great a fool as Bishop Vincent"—Another roar of laughter, after which the speaker added, "would have you believe."

Diagnosis.

Into a general store of a town in Arkansas there recently came a darky complaining that a ham which he had purchased there was not good.
"The ham is all right, Zeph," insisted the storekeeper.
"No, it ain't, boss," insisted the negro. "Dat ham's shore bad!"
"How can that be," continued the storekeeper, "when it was cured only last week?"
The darky scratched his head reflectively and finally suggested:
"Den mebbe it's had a relapse."— Harper's Weekly.
